

Mad? Me?

Best man
Kev strikes a pose for the paparazzi

The blessing

Taking their vows at the wedding
ceremony

First kiss

Sealed with a kiss:
Lynda and Mic
re-affirm their love
for one another

Westgate Times

August 24 2003

Special edition

ABOVE: Clara, Hannah, Lorna, Leslie, Cathy and Isabel with Lynda and Mic

ABOVE: Lynda's family pictured with the bride and groom

The sun continues to shine on Lynda and Mic - 12 months on

It's a marriage made in heaven

WHO can believe it has been a full 12 months since the wedding of the century.

Westgate-on-Sea has never seen such glitz and glamour as our star celebs Lynda and Mic tied the knot and made it official. In fact, the town is still recovering!

The sun shone down as lovebird Lynda said 'I do' to Mic, the man of her dreams (aaaaahhh!).

As the newlyweds left church, the crowds of onlookers surged forward for a first glimpse of the new husband and wife and jostled for position with the paparazzi, who were all chasing the first 'exclusive' shot for their front page.

There was no sign of 'hello' and 'ok' journalists - snubbed by the wedding couple - who they deemed unworthy for such a high-class occasion. Instead, it was the Westgate Times, which came up trumps.

Editor Max Edwards recalls: "The town came to a complete stand still. We had never seen an event like it. People still talk about it today and we have the photos here to capture the magic of the day."

ABOVE: Signing on the dotted line. The couple tie the legal knot. RIGHT: Love is definitely in the air.

A church service followed by an all-time monster party left the wedding group and their revellers dancing away into the early hours.

Lorna, Clara, Katie, Gary and Jamie, the bride and groom's brood, joined Mic and Lynda on the dancefloor and bopped the night away. Their celebrations followed one of the best 'best man' speeches ever by Kevin which left Lynda lost for words (there's a first!).

Now as the star couple wake up on 24th August 2003 - a year later - they can look back on a fab 12 months.

Settling into married life, Lynda has more than adapted to the female art of juggling - from her social work in the daytime to her role as caring mum, wife and 'general skivvy' by evening! Could this explain why she falls asleep after 'House Doctor'?

But there is still time for plenty of fun along the way. 'Clarence' has a particular liking for drinks (of the alcoholic type, of course) which often lead her to remove items of clothing.

She has acquired a great skill of cheek combustion and when in a merry state, loves giving away her family's worldly goods to anyone who may be passing. How generous!

Lynda is also generous with her love for husband Mic and their children. Together they make a great couple and a great family and as they celebrate their first anniversary, they can look ahead to many more happy years to come.

What a smartie

HARD on the outside but with a very soft centre, is Mic's perfect description of the love of his life Lynda. The last 12 months have undoubtedly been the best in his life - despite having to get used to some of Lynda's rather unhealthy obsessions with chicken fillets and Wonderbras - best not to ask any more!!

What's next

THE wedding story doesn't end there - they've had the service and more than a 'bit of a do' afterwards. Now that just leaves the honeymoon. After loads of commitments over the past 12 months, Mic and Lynda, minus the children, head off for Kalamaki in Greece next month and a romantic honeymoon to seal their love and celebrate their first fantastic year together. Be warned Kalamaki!!!

xxx Happy first anniversary Lynda - from Mic - your ever-loving husband, thanks for saying 'yes' xxx